THE REAL FOES

The resistance encountered by Italian forces in their war of conquest in Ethiopia is negligible from a military standpoint, their most potent opponents being the nature of the country and the climate, which are exacting a considerable toll in deaths and men being invalided home.

Although a territory in extent of about one-third of the United States thus far has been subjected to the rule of Il Duce, it is acquisition does not in reality mean a great deal. Much of it is desert, and climatic conditions are such in the "hell hole" that it is doubtful if Italian dreams of colonization there can ever come true. In its sweep of empire it will be vital for the success of the scheme to acquire land fitted for the purpose of the avowed objective—a place to take care of surplus population of an already overcrowded Italy.

COSTLY ENTERPRISE

To accomplish this end, even though ultimately successful, much blood and treasure must be spilled. And even then it is doubtful if a liability instead of an asset will not have been acquired.

THE VITAL TEST

In the meantime there will be added to present difficulties and woes the economic sanctions of the League of Nations. These penal measures, frankly stated, mean only one thing—an attempt through means of starvation to force Italy to abandon her conquest enterprise. No nation or individual can successfully fight on an empty stomach for any length of time, any more than it is possible to run an automobile or any other engine without fuel.

Victory or defeat therefore hinges on the success of sanction enforcement. From a military standpoint the solution is simple, with a nation equipped with all the engines of destruction of modern warfare pitted against a disorganized country with primitive weapons. But even modern methods of warfare fail in competition with Ethiopian climate and lack of food. There is yet no dearth of fodder, but what the climate can do is shown through the announcement that 5,500 Italian warriors were invalided home during the first week of this month.

WAITING GAME

In the meantime Emperor Haile Selassie is relying more on natural, but inimical forces to bring him victory than the valor of his troops. He can afford to play a waiting game. It is less expensive and more effective.

Seaman Attempts To Hold Up Pay Master Of Ship

SAN PEDRO, Nov. 16—UP—A seaman's bold attempt to hold up a navy paymaster aboard the U. S. S. California, flagship of the battleship force, was reported here tonight when the battleship reached port.

The vessel was 150 miles off shore when the seaman, whom officers refused to identify, pushed a gun in Lieutenant W. F. Trien's ribs and demanded that he open the safe in his quarters, containing an estimated $100,000 payroll in cash.

The surprised paymaster raised his hands and moved toward the safe. As the seaman pressed forward, according to reports, Lieutenant Trien distracted his attention and grasped the gun.

The two scuffled until the commotion was heard by other seamen who rushed in and overpowered the man. He was clamped into irons until the ship reached here.

Officers were amazed at the seaman's move, declaring that they could not understand how he believed he could get off the ship if the robbery attempt were successful.

DOG CLUB TO SEEK INJUNCTION

Attorney Sullivan In Test Case To Define Rights Of Operators

The El Cerrito Kennel Club will be re-opened and attorneys for the club will ask the Superior Court for an injunction restraining District Attorney Francis P. Healey from raiding the race course.

This was the ultimatum issued yesterday at Oakland by Leo Sullivan, counsel for the track owners in answer to what he said was the threat of District Attorney Healey that he would raid the track if it were opened.

TO FILE PETITION

Sullivan declared he would file a petition for an injunction against Healey and Sheriff John A. Miller, declaring that local dog races at the Roosevelt administration have shown the betting system at the track is not illegal. "We intend to stand on this in junction and conduct a thorough court action to have decided for once and for all the rights of the dog track operators in this matter," Sullivan said.

RAID THREATENED

According to Sullivan's statement, Healey wrote the track operators that opening of the dog course would mean a raid in which the district attorney would seize sufficient property to make a case in court.

Sullivan declared that Healey wrote in connection with the threatened raid: "You know, of course, that we can't conduct raids with kid gloves." SULLIVAN REPLIED: "Sullivan, in commenting upon this alleged statement, declared that county authorities had 'threatened' the club owners with destruction of their property in a raid and that 'we feel that we could well with in our rights in preventing through an injunction proceeding the inevitable loss to the stockholders that would result from such illegal destruction of property.'"

"A survey of the legal authorities of this and other states leads me to the opinion that the option system in vogue at the track is not illegal," The Fall season of the Kennel Club was abruptly closed Saturday night, November 2, after only a six-week program. It was rumored that Healey had planned a raid the night the club was closed. The prosecutor made no raid explaining that news of his plan had "leaked" out.

The veteran, white-haired Dr. Bono, who conducted the early phases of the campaign, has been promoted to marshal and recalled to Rome. The younger, vigorous Dr. Bono, Italy's most able tactician, will leave immediately for African headquarters, and the new offensive is expected to start shortly after his arrival.

Bank Christmas Clubs Will Send Out $7,500,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16—UP—The financial depression from which the United States seems to be emerging numbered Christmas saving fund clubs among its victims, a United Press survey of seven western states revealed today.

Only in California is the savings plan energetically advanced by banking institutions.

Major banks in Washington, Oregon, Utah, and Arizona have abandoned the plan in the last few years. They found it too expensive and too much trouble.

Smaller banks in Arizona and some in Montana still collect nickels, dimes, and dollars weekly from their clients and return the accumulated sums the first week of December, but it is chiefly in California that the practice is kept alive in the west.

California banks will release approximately $7,500,000 to their clients within the next few weeks.

Sentence Is Set For Bank Robber

Ross Metzger, 34, former engineer convicted of a part in the robbery of the Mechanics Bank in El Cerrito in October 1934, has had his prison term set at 10 years by the State Board of Prison Terms and Paroles.

Metzger was received at San Quentin prison on November 14, charged with second degree robbery.

ANTIDOTES OFFERED IN N. Y. SPEECH

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—UP—Former President Herbert Hoover tonight called for a complete reversal of local and national policies of the Roosevelt administration which he asserted was "inimical to the future of a nation already beset by disaster."

He proposed an 11-point "constructive federal program," including restoration of the gold standard, stopping "unconscionable public works," and balancing the federal budget, "not by more taxes but by reduction of tolls."

"DISASTER" FEARED

Such a program is imperative to prevent "disaster to the security and happiness of this nation," Mr. Hoover contended, after saying the country "shows hopeful signs of recovery despite great hindrances."

Mr. Hoover, who came here from California earlier in the week, spoke before 1900 former residents of the politically sensitive state of Ohio at a dinner of the Ohio Society of New York. His words were carried by radio throughout the country. The address was Mr. Hoover's first since the off-year elections.

MUM ON PLANS

He made no reference to his own political plans or hopes, gave no hint as to whether he intends to seek the Republican nomination and try to win back the presidency. But he did attack on many phases of the New Deal left no doubt.

Townsend And Coughlin May Unite Forces

DETROIT, Nov. 16—UP—Collaboration in the 1936 presidential campaign between the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and Frances E. Townsend was foreseen here tonight following an announcement that the two had conferred for more than an hour.

Townsend in a statement after the conference declared that "the Townsend group agrees with the National Union for Social Justice that 'the open hunting season is on for congressmen.'"

Father Coughlin used the same expression in his radio address last Sunday and it is believed the two will combine to denounce both the GOP and Democrats in the campaign.

Man Arrested In Burning Of Seven Pullman Co. Cars

OAKLAND, Nov. 16—UP—Seven Pullman cars have been destroyed by fire in the Oakland yards of the company within the past year. The company calls it arson. The man they accused of setting the fire says he really was benefiting the company and the traveling public.

"They were old cars and unsightly," Fred V. Foster, 39, an electrician's helper employed by the Pullman concern, purportedly told police when he was arrested.

The destruction of the seven cars and two other fires in the shops caused damage estimated at $50,000 by company officials.

Grange Asks U. S. Control Of All Banks

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 16—UP—Government operation of the nation's banking system was proposed in a resolution presented today at the annual convention of the National Grange.

Ervin E. Kinn, grand master of the local grange, said the resolution was a war against banks and all the war applies here, "for the monetary system of the nation is the only thing that is not controlled by the people."

Then the local grange, a branch of the National Grange, adopted a resolution that the federal government should take over the banking system.

Supporting his resolution, Kinn said he believes the time has come for operating banks on a national basis, similar to that of the government postal service.

In other resolutions adopted before the Grangers, delegates proposed crop insurance, conservation of water and other natural resources, and government operation of the nation's railroads.

The grangers spent most of their time today on sight-seeing. The national business was then closed Sunday a memorial service will be held as the highlight of the day's program.

On Monday convention sessions will resume, with election of officers, the most important matter under consideration.

A tie for the 1936 convention at San Antonio is seeking the convention to San Antonio.

Clipper To Make Test Hops Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16—UP—Pan-America's China Clipper, a 21-ton flying boat selected to inaugurate trans-Pacific air mail service, will make a preliminary test flight Sunday in preparation for its epoch-making journey across the western ocean.

The clipper's flight will be one of several to be made by the four-motored plane before it takes off Friday, Nov. 22, on a 6,000-mile journey to Honolulu, Guam, and Manila.

Although the second flying time of the clipper from Manila to Manila will be around 60 hours, the first flight will be made over five days, according to reports.

Several round-trip flights will be made before Pan-America will transport passengers over the route.

Probably on the third trip, scheduled for Dec. 29, the flight will be extended from Manila to Mexico.

Chavez, the commander of the aerial hop, believes a 100-hour flight is not too long.

MONTANA IS BEATEN BY CARDINALS

California and Stanford breezed through their pre-Big Game "breathers" yesterday, with the California squad hanging up a 13 to 9 victory over the College of Pacific.

This was the ninth straight victory for California, and places the squad still among the tops in undefeated teams.

STOIC IN FIRST

It took the Bears almost the first period before the first touchdown was scored, after they had been held for down on the one yard line. Two minutes before the quarter ended Howard went over the middle of the line. Fowler failed to convert. Two more scores came in the second quarter when George Cornell clinaxed a downfield drive with a dart through left tackle. Sparks missed the try for points. In the next kickoff Pacific allowed the ball to roll free and it was downed on their 10-yard line. Baldwin fumbled and Thorrell recovered. Cornell went over and Sparks converted.

Twice in the second quarter the Pacific team scored a goal drive but were held on the six-yard line.

60 YARD RUN

In the third quarter, Meek ran 60 yards to score for California when he intercepted Fry's pass. Davis failed to convert. Two more touchdowns were scored in the fourth quarter when Cornell went over after a down field drive to score. Vallejo kicked the extra.

Money Is Gone So Recreation Project Quits

Contra Costa county's ERA recreational program with playgrounds in major communities closed down yesterday, throwing out of work approximately 40 persons, who are, however, to be put onto WPA as soon as possible.

Whether the recreation program will be resumed under WPA is a moot question, according to County Director Warren Brown of Richmond, who stated that the whole future of the project is indefinite.

Sponsored by the county, the recreation program was a carryover of a summer program, of which Archie Williams was director. The ERA project just closing required an expenditure on the part of the county of $2653.97, while the ERA expended $429.40 for supervisors' salaries and mileage.

HOPES REVIVED

For Sir Charles

MEI BOURNE, Australia, Nov. 16—UP—From inland Siam today came word that revived hope for the safety of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and his co-pilot, T. J. Pethy, authorities with leading a group of conspirators against the government, was arrested.

According to intelligence officers, documents seized link Emilio Lauri, former Mexican police chief now in exile in Mexico, and Gustavo Narro, secretary of Public Works, in the cabinet of former President Ramon Grau San Martin, with the plot. The latter reportedly wrote a letter found in Rey Rodriguez' possession outlining the location of water mains leading to Camp Columbia. The mains were to be poisoned in order to kill the soldiers quartered there.

It was Sir Charles' ship that Miles saw. It was held possible the famed flier might have been forced down in some remote jungle spot, but might still be alive.

41 Camps Will Be Constructed For Transients

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—UP.—Frank Y. McLaughlin, state relief administrator, announced today 41 camps will be established to take care of between 10,000 and 12,000 transients in California.

Presidential approval of 17 additional camps was received today. The original program provided for 24 camps at an estimated cost of $200,000.

The men who will be maintained in the camps will be those who have not been assigned to WPA work or absorbed in private industry when the direct relief program is ended, probably late this month.

The men in the camps will be assigned to work laid out by the state department of natural resources, the national forestry service and organizations sponsoring preservation and propagation of fish and game.

Protests Made On Trade Pact Being Studied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—UP.—Administration officials were confident today that the new trade pact with Canada, the United States' most important trade agreement, would outlive the protests that already are reaching the State Department.

Although details of the treaty will not be published until Monday, and officials were silent concerning its provisions, some industries adopted a pessimistic attitude and let it be known that they expected to suffer.

One of the two texts signed in President Roosevelt's office yesterday by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Prime Minister William Mackenzie King was on its way to Ottawa today for publication there simultaneously with its release here.

Mr. Roosevelt Is Fishing For Republican Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—UP.—President Roosevelt's outspoken endorsement of the re-election of George W. Norris, R., Neb., was accepted by some political observers today as indicating the New Deal is angling for independent Republican support in 1936.

Although Roosevelt's declaration that Norris should be a member of the Senate "for as long as he can" might be considered the outgrowth of a deep, personal friendship, ob-

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Sinus Troubles Can Easily Lead to Difficulties
In Circulation

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

MRS. W. J. Y. writes a long letter describing her condition which dates back to an attack of sinusitis eleven years ago. She has gone through an abdominal operation, endured various attacks of sinus trouble and bronchitis, and now, to top it off, she is suffering from inflammation and obstruction of the veins and possibly of the arteries of both legs from the hips down.

DR. CHRISMAN

She describes herself as being "nervously inadequate." She ends her story by stating that she has no money, and is unable to pay for treatment. That feature is one of the worst results of prolonged and baffling illness. Many, many people are suffering from illnesses that could be corrected if they could continue to pay for treatment.

The state pays a small medical fee for those on relief, but those not on relief can obtain no services unless the doctor gives it free. They are giving a vast amount of free, but there is a limit to all things, and the doctors are seldom rich men.

Why can't they go to the hospital? Well, if all that needed and deserved free treatment went to the hospitals, the walls would bulge out all over the community. The hospitals cannot take care of them. Their income, too, has been curtailed, and most of these institutions are running into the "red," and wondering how much longer they can keep going.

Money Well Used

When your local hospital makes a plea for funds for goodness sake give all you can and more. It is sadly needed and will not be wasted.

Now back to Mrs. W. J. Y. Boiled down, her story is one of repeated head colds, followed by chronic inflammation of the sinuses. General systemic intoxication, insomnia, impaired digestion make her weak and tired all the time, and now when she is unable to get on her feet her legs ache dreadfully she is compelled to lie down with the legs elevated.

The constant discharge from the nose has been a constant source of annoyance, and in place of having arthritis, all these other things have developed. Several years ago her physician packed the sinuses and she was greatly relieved for six months. Later he advised operation to clean out diseased tissue.

His recommendation was good, and if the cleaned sinuses were filled with nascent iodine for a short time the main cause of the trouble would improve greatly. But that takes money, which she does not have.

For such circulatory trouble in the legs, I suggest again the use of a PaVaEx machine, in using which the limbs are placed in a cylinder and subjected to alternating relaxation and contraction of the blood vessels by means of a controlled vacuum pressure. This would increase the blood flow and relieve the pain. But this machine costs a great deal of money. Very few physicians have them and the hospitals do not all own one.

Suggest Local Treatment

I am reduced to the advice of having her physician pack her sinuses as best he can and injecting into the muscles once or twice a week a vaccine composed of killed bacteria that are usually present in nasal infection. She asks if the Syrup of Iodide of Iron would help her. It is a very good blood and systemic tonic, and when taken in doses of one-half to a teaspoonful in a glass of water with meals is often of great benefit.

Mrs. W. E. W. states that eight years ago, following an operation, there occurred a Phlebitis (inflammation of the vein) in the veins of her left leg. It subsided under appropriate treatment. Last May the phlebitis recurred in the same leg, and still persists. She does not so state, but I suppose she has some fever, swelling of the foot, and considerable pain while standing or walking. She may be bed fast.

She also states she has taken X-ray treatment for the menopause, and asks for a method of treatment. Her own physician knows far more about her than I do. X-ray treatment is an accepted treatment, but too much can cause trouble. Phlebitis could be improved by injections in the muscles once or twice a week of small doses of a non-specific protein, such as Hemo-protein or Activin. These do no harm and often are very beneficial.

Guide to Charm

Screen Stars Spend Effort On Their Hair

By JACQUELINE HUNT

NO MATTER how beautifully dressed a woman may be, she cannot look properly groomed and turned out if her hair is not sleek, lustrous and becomingly arranged. This is one of the many reasons why our favorite screen stars spend so much time with special shampoos and meticulous care to keep their hair sparkling and attractive.

This also explains why actresses are constantly experimenting with various hair styles to suit their personalities, their moods, their clothes, and the parts they play. Some of the hints passed along by the screen stars will help you keep your own hair shining and healthy.

Helena Vinson, the film star who recently married Fred Perry, of the tennis world, has lovely golden hair with a natural curl in it. When she is not working she shampoos it once a week with shredded castile soap dissolved in hot water. She always has a professional scalp massage before she shampoos to stimulate the circulation and loosen any particles of dust or foreign material.

Even though she has lovely, natural waves, she has her hair set with a lotion to keep it neat, smooth and manageable. She has the ends curled as often as necessary because it is a part of her code to look neat and attractive at all times.

When she is working she has a hairdresser in constant attendance at home instead of at the studio, so that when she arrives on the set she is perfectly groomed and ready to appear before the cameras. She usually wears her hair parted in the middle, but when her role calls for something different she tries other arrangements. She must be careful, however, to get the right angle to her part and to keep it short in order not to accent the width of her jaws.

Pay Wray gives her soft, reddish brown hair an overnight oil treatment once every two weeks. For her regular shampoos she uses castile soap liquid with oil lathered into it. To cut away every trace of remaining soap and to bring out all the natural sheen and luster of her hair she squeezes lemon juice into her next-to-the-last rinse water.

Another interesting tip comes from Madeleine Carroll. She is blessed with thick ash-blond hair which she brushes smoothly off her brow and wears in large waves. She gives her hair a summer holiday, so the sun and air can get into it. She wears a hat as frequently as possible.

Jean Harlow is one of the few girls who find it necessary to keep her hair shampoo every night to keep it silky and fluffy. She also spends hours with her hairbrush to keep her locks as softly lustrous as spun platinum.

Beauty Tips

Shiny noses are a source of embarrassment to many women. They usually indicate an oily skin, but not always. Sometimes they appear when the rest of the skin is dry and sensitive. If you have an oily nose try scrubbing it thoroughly with soap and water twice daily, and cleanse between times with a liquid cleanser. Use an aspirin after your night cleansing to tighten the pores and remove the excess oil.

Before applying make-up use a vanishing cream or a liquid powder lotion that matches the complexion over the nose, even if you found an other foundation best for the rest of your skin. Wait until the powder lotion is dry or the cream has disappeared, then dust with the face powder that you ordinarily use.

QUESTION: "Can you suggest an exercise for large flabby arms? My bust could also stand reducing."

For flabby, stout arms the old fashioned military exercise is probably the most effective. Stand erect with sharp counts of one, two, three, four, swing the arms forward and up at shoulder level, outward to the sides, downward until the palms of your hands touch your thighs and forward and up again. Repeat until the muscles of the arms feel tired. Arm exercises of any kind, while they will not reduce the bust, will make it firmer and apparently smaller. Sports like tennis, golf and swimming also help.

For Storing Silver

You can store table silver for as long as a year without its tarnishing. For this purpose there are narrow envelopes of moisture-proof cellophane. Each envelope will hold three pieces.

Dresses Made Convertible To Supply Needed Variety

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Until recently we were content to own a dress that looked exactly one way. Now we expect much more. We want a dress to look like several kinds. Designers have been clever enough to make dresses convertible. Some times it's a trick of the collar, sometimes a turn or twist of the fabric, or even the jacket. Now the addition and subtraction of a piece helps a lot, or the use of a belt at one time and not at another.

The shops are showing many number of double duty dresses. Women have actually come to expect at least double duty from their costumes. Just now tunics and boleros help; a dress may be complete without a tunic, yet a tunic may be worn over it, the skirt serving for both. Many a metal tunic will sit down to turkey and fixins. It's the ideal dress-up costume for the traveler, the girl who goes home for Thanksgiving, and the woman who runs into town for dinner, luncheon, or the matinee. No wonder there are so many about.

Still harping on the theme of the convertible dress, isn't it going to be simply swell if the two-piece idea gets across for evening and so provides an opportunity to wear contrasting bodice and skirt arrangements?

Temping as gorgeous clothes are, women have no need for such fiery content themselves with plainer and often simpler things. The type of costume favorite, particularly with the younger set. Such clothes are usually colorful, and this season they are particularly bright, with just enough dulcet tones for contrast.

That suits have sold better than dresses in some of the most exclusive shops is news, since spring, and not autumn, usually brings the suit urge. This topsy turvy state of affairs is accounted for by the entrance on the scene of so many stunning fur-trimmed suits.

QUESTION: "A boy asked me to go out with him. Could you please tell me how to act when I go out with him? I want to make a good impression—Olive."

ANSWER: The best advice I don't act. Just be yourself, your best self. Speak about topics that interest you. And to help you better acquainted, it is quite permissible to ask questions about things you would like to know pertaining to his work or school or his taste in books, movies. Many young men are quite as tongue-tied and unsure of themselves in the presence of the girls they take out as the girls themselves. A girl's questions, therefore, may well become a chap's cue for making conversation.

QUESTION: "My mother says that nice girls do not linger on the doorstep chatting with the young men who escort them home from an evening's entertainment. I say she is old-fashioned. We have had a tangle may be over this point. What do you think?—G. E."

ANSWER: Except for a few minor changes, what was considered good form in mother's day is the accepted basis for good form today. There can be only one excuse for not inviting a young man in after a party or movie, the fact that it is too late. If it is too late to invite him inside for a chat or refreshment of some kind, it obviously is too late for the young lady to start a chat with him on the doorstep. If he seems disposed to linger here, the girl should call the meeting short, by saying, "Good night," with a gracious smile.

Dishes for Today

Sea Food Is Ideal Change For the Menu

By JUDITH WILSON

YOUNG homemakers who wish to plan attractive, varied meals that are also economical should learn some of the delightful ways in which fish, fresh, canned or salted, can be prepared. Baked fish, chowders, fish balls and oysters are especially nice for cold weather menus.

Today's fish recipes are unusually good, and they are easy for even the inexperienced cook to prepare.

DINNERS

Grapefruit-Persimmon Salad
Prune Pinwheels
Tea with Lemon

Pan-Broiled Haddock

For 2 get a fillet of haddock weighing slightly less than 1 pound. Wipe quickly with a cloth, put in pieces for serving. Roll or put dry bread through food chopper and sift. You will need 1/2 cup of these fine dry crumbs. Add a teaspoon salt and roll the fillets in the crumbs. Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a frying pan and saute the fillets until golden brown on each side. Remove to a hot platter. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add the juice of half a lemon, 1/2 teaspoon finely chopped parsley and salt and pepper. Pour over the fillets and serve immediately.

Oysters Benedict

Saute lightly 6 thin slices boiled ham in its own fat and remove from the frying pan. Drain 2 cups oysters from their liquid and saute 1 minute in the ham fat. Make 6 slices toast and on each piece, arrange a slice of ham and 4 sauteed oysters. Pour Hollandaise sauce over each serving and garnish with thin strips lemonade.

New Zealand Bake

Wipe and split 2 pounds fresh codfish. Lay in a buttered baking dish and dust well with pepper and salt. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and 2 tablespoons grated onion. Make a batter of 1 egg beaten and added to 1 cup milk and 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour. Pour this thin batter over the fish, dust with grated cheese, and bake in a moderate oven for 1 1/2 hours.

Scrambled Eggs with Sardines
Follow your favorite recipe for scrambled eggs. When done, arrange on trimmed slices of buttered toast. Cover the eggs with a layer of Norwegian sardines. Add a dash of lemon juice and a sprinkle of paprika. Pop under the broiler just long enough to thoroughly heat the sardines and blend the flavors. This makes a nice breakfast dish or supper snack.

Sardines, incidentally, make an interesting filling for stuffed peppers when diced, mixed with bread crumbs, and seasoned well with mustard and Worcestershire.

Codfish Balls

Soak salt codfish overnight in cold water. Drain. Have ready twice the amount of boiled and mashed potatoes. Add the shredded codfish, 1 slightly beaten egg for each cup of codfish and potatoes, and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Season with pepper. Roll into tiny balls and drop into deep, hot fat until brown. ## MODERN WOMEN

She Wasn't Interested a Year Ago, But Now She Wants Him

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

THERE is nothing a man resents more than a proprietary attitude on the part of some woman who is not either his wife or fiancée. Even when she is one or the other it's difficult for him to appreciate. When a man is merely attentive to a girl she has no reason to resent a similar attitude toward another girl. If she wants to win him she should be on her feet.

Above all things, a girl in such a position should not show, by word or deed, that she has any feeling of resentment over the man's reaction to her attitude. If she does the chances are it will drive him right into the arms of someone else.

Women, or the majority of them at least, are thrilled at the proprietary attitude of the man. What a man's reaction is quite different. It frightens him into flight.

"Dear Mrs. Martin: About a year ago a certain young man asked me to keep steady company with him. I could see at the time his object was matrimony, if not in the near future, then at some later date. I liked him, but not well enough, and having just received an offer from an unfortunate fellow, I shied away from any attachment that might become serious. Not long afterward he became acquainted with a girl whom he never dreamed of seeing steadily. However, he used to see me whenever possible all summer, and lately has been seeing me quite often, all unknown to the other girl. Now that I know he has a girl who is the openly his 'steady,' while I am the one he sees on the sly, I don't relish the situation. No doubt it is all my fault, but a year ago I never dreamed of seeing him. How he cares for me, but how do I know he doesn't tell her the same thing? He seems sincere enough, but still, considering everything, I'm inclined to be a little skeptical."

The boy winced. Somehow he could not help feeling that he already had disgraced himself. He was an unworthy fellow. What was the use of trying to be something else? In this frame of mind it would not be easy to obey mother. If the boy washed himself at all, the mother would be lucky. A willingness to please and a willingness to obey parents are not born of such prompting.

Finally Henry managed to wash up half-heartedly and with careless results. "A four-year-old boy could do better," mother criticized.

Why do you make me feel so ashamed of you, Henry? The boy regarded mother reproachfully, as he allowed her to wash him now and brush his clothes and pull his tie straight. He was trying very hard to hide his true feelings from her.

"There! That's better!" mother announced. But Henry, whose resentment had been mounting steadily, blurted, "I'm not a baby," and pulled his tie away. Mother was horrified. "You're a rude, ungrateful boy and I'm ashamed of you," Henry's answer to this was slammed the door as he went out. The effect of shaming a child is degrading. It is no way to teach or punish or correct, and the wise mother avoids the method altogether. To shame a child fills him with a disturbing sense of guilt. It robs him of home and self-confidence, thereby giving him cause for wearing a chip on his shoulder.

cornbread sticks, poached eggs and coffee belong with fish balls, whether served for breakfast, luncheon or dinner.

Panned Oysters
Arrange 2 dozen plump oysters in a shallow pan and add a little of the oyster liquid. Place in a hot oven just long enough to thoroughly heat the oysters. Moisten not buttered toast with some of the oyster liquor and serve the oysters, six to a person, on the toast slices.

BEAUTY AND THE KITCHEN

Experts experimented a year, then produced these new scientific aluminum utensils. Unique features are the unusual covers which seal in the steam, the flat tops which permit stacking for space-saving oven cookery, and the clever, non-skid, non-burn bakelite handles.

He Looked Elsewhere

You are not the first girl who repulsed a man's matrimonial attentions and regretted it afterward. Probably you gave this man to understand you did not want to marry and, since you are sure he did want to marry, he has looked elsewhere for a mate. When a man wants to marry and has no special woman in his heart he has a pretty wide range of subjects from which to choose. He isn't likely to marry one woman when he wants to marry another.

Your best bet is to terrify yourself with him, to let him know in some frank or subtle way that "Barkis is willin'." Maybe it isn't too late to win him away from the girl you consider his steady. If you care for him and have reason to believe he wanted to marry you, I don't see any cause for you to despair.

You must, of course, not be seen "on the sly." Such a situation is intolerable for any self-respecting woman. Go places with him and be seen with him openly—or not at all. You have given this man reason to believe you do not want to marry him, so until you relieve his mind of that idea it's a bit inconsistent of you to be a dog in the manger.

He is going to marry the girl who makes him necessary to him and who he thinks loves him, and will make him the better wife. It's up to you to make him think that woman is you.

STOCK MARKET CHALKS UP NEW YEAR'S HIGHS

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The stock market smashed into further new highs this week—the industrial average climbing to a fresh peak for four years—to end one of the most bullish demonstrations in several months. Business improvements plus the implied promise that the breathing spell for industry will be continued, furnished a background that attracted traders from near and far. American investors were joined by European interests in demanding common stocks and bonds.

The consequence, as revealed in Dow-Jones averages at the close, was:

Industrial, 117.31, up 2.95 points for the week and new high since 1931.

Railroad, 37.59, up 2.05 and new 1935 high.

Utility, 29.35, up 0.37 and new 1935 high.

Profit-taking of course, made its appearance regularly. Advancing prices brought many in to claim paper profits that had been piled up amounting to billions of dollars since the market started its slow climb last March. But the profit taking failed to make any appreciable impression.

20 Arrested In Violent Warsaw Jewish Rioting

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 16.—Twenty persons were arrested today in a riot in Warsaw, Poland.

Nationalist students, who were from the University of Warsaw, attacked a group of Jews who were gathered in the windows of 35 Jewish homes and restaurants.

Police intervened and made 20 arrests.

Six were arrested when another group tried to demonstrate in front of the Czechoslovakian legation.

Similar riots occurred in Lodz, where one of the demonstrators was removed to the hospital in a grave condition.

ANTIDOTES OFFERED IN N. Y. SPEECH

but he intends to carry on at the forefront of the Republican attack on the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Hoover indicted the whole range of the "new economic planning," which, he said, "was neither conservative, liberal nor common sense," but it was the flood and ordinary a series of the planning, he viewed as more dangerous.

ANTIDOTE OFFERED

"The constructive fiscal program that he offered as an antidote was:

1. "The waste of taxpayers' money on unnecessary public works should end."

2. "The administration of relief should be turned over to local authorities. Federal expenditures for relief should be confined to cash allowances to these authorities to the extent that they are unable to provide their own funds."

3. "The spending for visionary and un-American experiments should be stopped."

BALANCE BUDGET PLEA

"This hoarding of political bureaucracy should be rooted out."

"The provision of the constitution requiring that expenditures shall be only in accordance actually made by law should be obeyed. And they should be made for specific purposes."

6. "The budget should be balanced, not by more taxes, but by reduction of follies."

7. "The futile purchases of foreign goods should be stopped."

8. "The gold standard should be reestablished, even on the new basis."

NO JUGGLING OF CASH

"The act authorizing the president to influence the currency should be repealed."

10. "The Administration should give and keep a pledge to the country that there will be no further juggling of the currency and no further experiments with credit inflation."

11. "Confidence in the validity of promises of the government should be restored."

"Economic security, social security or any other security cannot be found without first restoring these primary policies of government," Hoover asserted.

Great Britain Is Expected To Start Re-Arming

LONDON, Nov. 16.—UP—The general election, from which Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's Conservative government emerged with an impressive majority, has placed the government in a position to spend many millions of pounds on the re-armament of British land, sea and air as it deems necessary to defend the empire.

Although the government went before the country ostensibly on its general foreign policy, the main issue proved to be armaments.

The Labor Party made its chief attack on the government's policy of re-armament, upon which the new parliament undoubtedly will embark vigorously as soon as it convenes.

Seven Counties Of State Given Gas Tax Money

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 16.—UP—Quarterly gasoline tax allocations held back November 1 while Julian D. Roussel, secretary of the State Highway commission, investigated gas tax expenditures by County Boards of Supervisors, were released to seven more counties today.

Allowances were ordered distributed to Los Angeles, Butte, Glenn, Placer, Kings, San Bernardino and Yuba counties.

Roussel has released funds to 18 counties to date, and is checking financial reports of other counties which were returned for correction.

PEACH MEN OF DISTRICT IN ANOTHER ROW

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—UP—The warfare which split the ranks of the California Canning Peach Growers' Association this summer and resulted in a re-organization was renewed today in the filing of a $28,000 damage suit in the Alameda county court.

W. J. Edinger, new manager of the co-operative, filed the suit which named A. D. Poggetto, former manager, and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Williams, Modesto, as defendants.

The suit charged "breach of trust and fraudulent concealment of excess advances and over-payments" of association funds to the persons named. Williams was a former director of the organization.

Poggetto was ousted through a recall election which followed efforts of one faction in the co-operative to force the manager to surrender the books for audit. As soon as new directors took control, the long-sought audit was started.

The charges made in the suit announced Edinger today purportedly resulted from that audit. It was intimated there would be further actions against other persons.

The payments which Edinger reckoned returned purportedly were authorized by Poggetto without the knowledge or approval of directors or members.

Rigid Economy For State Will Be Farmer Plea

SANTA CRUZ, Nov. 16.—UP—Establishment of rigid economy in state administration, opposition to a state ad valorem tax, centralization of rural road administration and elimination of extra governmental functions will be urged in resolutions to be presented before the 17th annual California Farm Bureau convention here next week, following recommendations approved by the directors and officers of the organization today.

Among the principal resolutions recommended are:

Condemnation of a state ad valorem tax on the ground it is overworked and is adapted to local units of government better than any other task and therefore should be reserved for the use of such units.

Consolidation of rural roads and centralized road administration at Sacramento, with an accompanying recommendation that farm bureau members urge county boards of supervisors to consolidate road districts and provide for a centralized road bureau in each county in accordance with new state laws.
